Tom is American. He is a university student. His grandmother, Satsuki, is Japanese. She lives alone in a small town far from Tom's house. When he was a child, he sometimes visited his grandmother. She often talked to him about Japan. He was interested in going to her hometown, so he went there this summer.

First he visited Osaka. He found a nice takoyaki restaurant. He ate a lot of takoyaki there. While he was eating takoyaki, he saw a poster on the wall. It was a picture of a seaside town in Kochi, his grandmother's hometown. He was happy and talked to the cook in the restaurant, "I'm going to visit Kochi tomorrow. My grandmother is from this town." The cook said, "Oh, really? I'm also from that town. I'm Kenta." "I'm very glad to meet you. I'm Tom." Tom and Kenta enjoyed talking about Kochi.

The next morning Tom left Osaka for Kochi. When he arrived at the seaside town in Kochi, he found a police box. He said to the police officer, "How can I get to the beach?" The police officer was very kind and took Tom there.

There was a house by the beach. A young woman came out from the house. Tom said "hello" to her. She said, "Hi, I'm Miho. What's your name?" "I'm Tom. I came from America. Nice to meet you. I came to this town because my grandmother was born here. It is very beautiful," said Tom. Miho was very happy to hear this. She invited him to her house and introduced her family to him. Tom showed some family pictures and talked about his grandmother. Miho's grandmother, Haruko, looked at a picture of his grandmother and said, "You are Satsuki's grandchild! She was my classmate. We often went home from school together. Satsuki left Japan many years ago." Tom was surprised and said, "You know my grandmother?" Haruko said, "Yes. My friend, Akiko, was also Satsuki's classmate. She lives near my house. Let's have a party together tomorrow."

There was a party the next day. Haruko's friend, Akiko, joined it. She brought some pictures of her high school days. Tom saw his grandmother in some of them. Akiko said, "Your grandmother was a nice girl. She was good at English. Also, she could run very fast. She was the fastest girl in our class." Tom was surprised and said, "I also like running. I didn't know my grandmother was a fast runner." They enjoyed talking a lot and had a good time. Haruko said, "I want to meet her again."

When Tom went back to America, he visited his grandmother. He told her about his trip to Japan. She said, "You met Haruko and Akiko! I want to see them again." Tom said, "I have big news. Your friend, Haruko, and her grandchild will come to America to see you in January." His grandmother was happy to hear that.
